

We who depend on Washington State Ferries as transportation are gravely concerned about Homeland Securities thoughts on safety. Ferries are no more a target than are bridges. Do you plan to search everyone who crosses a bridge? One can never have complete safety/security without giving up all freedom. It is not worth the price. I strongly urge you to use common sense when creating guidelines for ferry security.